

Powers of Attorney and Health Care Directives

You may have thought about which friend or relative you would choose to make decisions for you if you become injured or sick. You may have even thought about what kinds of medical treatment you will want if you are terminally ill or in a coma. But have you written it down? A power of attorney document allows you to choose a trusted friend or relative to help you with your health care and/or finances. A health care directive tells your friends, family and medical providers what kinds of treatment you want if you cannot speak for yourself.

What is a Power of Attorney for Finances?

In a power of attorney for finances document, you choose someone you trust with your money (your “agent”) to act on your behalf and help you with your money, property and belongings. You can give your agent the power to do things like pay your bills, take money out of your bank account, or buy and sell your property. If you make your power of attorney “durable”, your agent can keep to helping you even if you become sick or injured and cannot make decisions for yourself. You can still make your own decisions about your finances. You can change or cancel your power of attorney at any time.

What is a Power of Attorney for Health Care?

In a power of attorney for health care document, you choose someone you trust with your health care (your “agent”) to act on your behalf and help you with health care decisions. You can give your agent the power to do things like access your medical records and approve medical treatment. If you make your power of attorney “durable”, your agent can keep helping you even if you become sick or injured and cannot make decisions for yourself. You can still make your own decisions about your health care. You can change or cancel your power of attorney at any time.

What is a Health Care Directive?

In a health care directive (also called a “living will”), you choose the end-of-life medical procedures you do not wish to have if you become terminally ill or permanently unconscious. The types of treatment you can reject include feeding tubes, ventilators, IV hydration, and CPR. You can also express your general values regarding your health care in this document. You can still make your own decisions as long as you are able and you can change or cancel the health care directive at any time.

Power of Attorney FAQs

What powers can I give my agent?	You can give your agent virtually all the powers you currently have to transact business and make medical decisions, including the power to buy and sell your things, withdraw money from your bank account, view your medical records, approve your medical treatment, etc.
Do I have to list every power separately?	No. But, there are a few special powers you have to specifically mention if you want your agent to have them, including the power to refuse an inheritance, change the beneficiary of your life insurance policy, give gifts of your property or money, and transfer property into a trust.
Can I limit my agent's powers?	Yes. You get to decide what powers you want to give your agent.
What does "durable" mean?	"Durable" means that your agent can still use the power of attorney document to help you even if you become sick or injured and cannot make decision for yourself.
When does my durable power of attorney document start working?	You can decide whether you want your durable power of attorney document to start immediately or only when you cannot make decisions for yourself.
How long does my durable power of attorney document last?	Your durable power of attorney document ends when you die. You can write in an earlier end date or event if you choose.
Do I lose the power to make decisions when I sign a durable power of attorney document?	No. A durable power of attorney document does not cancel your power to take actions or make decisions for yourself. It just duplicates the powers you have in a second person so that he/she can act for you if you need that assistance.
What if my agent starts doing things I don't like?	You can cancel ("revoke") your durable power of attorney document. You should destroy the document and any copies and give a written notice of revocation to the agent. You can also give written notice of revocation to your medical providers, anyone that holds your property (e.g. Department of Licensing for car title) and banks where you have accounts.

What if I want someone else to be my agent?	You can cancel (“revoke”) your durable power of attorney document and make a new one. You should destroy the old document and any copies and give a written notice to the old agent and new agent.
Does my durable power of attorney document have to be notarized?	The law does not require notarization. But, it’s a good idea to have your durable power of attorney for finances notarized because some banks and government agencies require it.
Do I also need to get a legal guardian?	No. A legal guardian is selected by a judge during a court case after the judge determines that a person is mentally unable to make decisions for him/herself.
Can my agent admit me to inpatient mental health treatment or authorize shock therapy?	No. Generally, your agent would need a court order for these acts. However, if you have a mental health disability, you can prepare a Mental Health Advance Directive that authorizes voluntary inpatient treatment and special procedures.
What should I do with my durable power of attorney after I sign it?	You should make copies. Give the original to your agent, a copy to your alternate agent, and keep a copy for yourself.

Health Care Directive FAQs

Is a “living will” different from a health care directive?	No. A health care directive lets you choose medical procedures that you do not wish to have if you become terminally ill or permanently unconscious. Some people call this document a “living will”.
Is a POLST form different from a health care directive?	Yes. A Physician Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment (POLST) form is a set of medical orders that follow your preferences for end-of-life treatment in your home if you have a terminal or serious illness. POLST forms are bright green. They must be signed by an authorized medical provider.
Do medical providers have to honor my health care directive?	No. Providers may refuse to follow your health care directive due to personal or religious beliefs or hospital policy. Your agent should find providers and hospitals that will follow your health care directive.

What medical procedures can I say I do not want if I'm terminally ill or in a permanent coma?	The next few boxes briefly describe common end-of-life medical procedures you may not want if you are terminally ill or in a permanent coma. However, you should talk to your medical provider about these procedures and other procedures or medications.
What is a feed tube or IV hydration?	A medical procedure where you are given nutrients and fluids through a tube placed directly into your stomach, upper intestine, or vein to supplement or replace ordinary eating and drinking.
What is ventilation?	A medical procedure where a machine called a respirator or ventilator forces air into your lungs to support or replace the function of the lungs. The ventilator is attached to a tube inserted in your nose or mouth and down into your windpipe.
What is cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR)?	A medical procedure where someone else makes your heart and lungs work by compressing your chest and forcing air into your lungs when your heart and/or breathing stops. Electric shock and drugs may also be used to stimulate your heart
What is blood dialysis?	A medical procedure where a machine filters harmful wastes, salt and excess fluid from your blood when your kidneys stop working.
What is a blood transfusion?	A medical procedure where donated blood is given to you through an intravenous line to replace lost or contaminated blood.
What if I want to change my health care directive?	You can cancel your health care directive and make a new one. You should destroy any old health care directives.
Does my health care directive have to be notarized?	No.
Does my health care directive have to be witnessed?	Yes. You must sign your health care directive in front of two witnesses. The witnesses can't be (a) related to you by blood or marriage, (b) entitled to receive any portion of your estate, or (c) your attending physician or an employee of your health care facility.
What should I do with my health care directive after I sign it?	You should show your health care directive to your medical provider, trusted friends and/or relatives and talk with them about your end-of-life wishes. You should store the original in a safe place.

What is a Mental Health Directive?

A mental health directive allows you to make decisions in advance about your mental health treatment and values, including preferred medications, who are your trusted health care providers, advance consent to short-term admission to inpatient treatment, and what treatments and care help you most to improve your mental health and avoid hospitalization. A Mental Health Directive is especially important during times when you cannot make decisions for yourself due to your mental illness. You can find a Mental Health Directive on the Washington Law Help website: www.washingtonlawhelp.org.

Health Care Directive of

[My Name]

As a person with capacity, I willfully and voluntarily execute this Health Care Directive. In the absence of my ability to give directions regarding the use of life sustaining treatment, it is my intention that this directive shall be honored by my family and all medical providers as the final expression of my legal right to refuse medical or surgical treatment, and I accept the consequences of such refusal. If I have appointed another person to make health care decisions for me, whether through a durable power of attorney or otherwise, then I request that my agent be guided by my desires as expressed in this directive or as otherwise communicated to my agent. It is my wish that every part of this directive be fully implemented. If for any reason any part is held invalid it is my wish that the remainder of my directive be implemented.

- 1. Withhold and Withdraw Treatment. If at any time I should be diagnosed in writing to be in a terminal condition by my physician, or in a permanent unconscious condition by two physicians, and where the application of life sustaining treatment would serve only artificially to prolong the process of my dying, I direct that the following treatment be withheld or withdrawn: (initial the choices that apply)

____ Artificial nutrition.

____ Artificial hydration.

____ Artificial respiration.

____ Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) , including artificial ventilation, heart regulating drugs, diuretics, stimulants, or any other treatment for heart failure.

____ Surgery to prolong my life or keep me alive.

____ Blood dialysis or filtration for lost kidney function.

____ Blood transfusion to replace lost or contaminated blood.

____ Medication used to prolong life, not for controlling pain.

____ Any other medical treatment used to prolong my life or keep me alive.

2. Comfort Care and Pain Medication. If at any time I should be diagnosed in writing to be in a terminal condition by my physician, or in a permanent unconscious condition by two physicians, I want treatment to relieve my pain and symptoms and make me comfortable if I appear to be in pain or experiencing other signs of discomfort, even if my physicians or other medical providers believe this might unintentionally hasten my death.

3. Health Care Institutions – Refusal to Honor My Advance Directive. If I am a patient at a health care institution whose policy is to decline to follow advance directives that conflict with certain religious or other beliefs when this document comes into effect, I direct that my consent to admission shall not constitute implied consent to procedures or courses of treatment that conflict with this advance directive. Moreover, if a health care institution declines to follow my wishes set out in the advance directive when this document comes into effect, I direct that I be transferred as soon as possible to a hospital, nursing home, or other institution that will honor the instructions provided in this document.

4. Changes and Revocation. I understand that, before I sign this directive, I can add to or delete from or otherwise change the wording of this directive. I further understand that at any time I may revoke this directive entirely or execute a new directive with different provisions. Any changes must be consistent with Washington State law or federal constitutional law to be legally valid.

5. Pregnancy. If I have been diagnosed as pregnant and that diagnosis is known to my physician, this directive: (initial the choice that applies) _____ shall still have full force and effect during the course of my pregnancy.

_____ shall have no force or effect during the course of my pregnancy.
